A Season of Hope

"May the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace in believing, so that by the power of the Holy Spirit you may abound in hope."

—Romans 15:13

"Hope is The Thing with Feathers"

Hope is the thing with feathers That perches in the soul, And sings the tune without the words, And never stops at all,

And sweetest in the gale is heard; And sore must be the storm That could abash the little bird That kept so many warm.

I've heard it in the chillest land, And on the strangest sea; Yet, never, in extremity, It asked a crumb of me.

Emily Dickinson

"Hope is the thing with feathers" is a kind of hymn of praise, written to honor the human capacity for hope. Using metaphor, the poem portrays hope as a bird that lives within the human soul; this bird sings come rain or shine, gale or storm, good times or bad. The poem argues that hope is miraculous and almost impossible to defeat. Furthermore, hope never asks for anything in return—it costs nothing for people to maintain hope. We are implored as readers to make good use of hope—and to see it as an essential, deeply valuable part of ourselves.

Looking at the year ahead, we do well to remember the benefits of keeping hope in our lives. First as Christians, hope increases our faith. As Hebrews 11 highlights, hope and faith are intertwined. Faith is the assured expectation of things hoped for. Hope and faith fuel each other.

Hope is also many other things. Hope energizes the present. It makes life worth living. It's a light in the darkness, it's healing during times of sorrow or loss. Hope is practical, it moves us to action! It gets us involved in our church and community. Hope is also infectious; when we are living with hope, we can inspire and motivate others to do the same. Hope moves us forward.

Christian hope is a realistic expectation of and joyful longing for future good and glory based upon the word of God. The more we look brightly to the future, the more evident our faith in God's purpose and ours.

Ringing in 2023, let the bird of hope perch in your heart, let it fly in your soul, and let it sing to the glory of God's presence in our lives now and each day forward.
